PROFESSIONAL SEMINARS FOR THERAPISTS - 2015

ARCHETYPES AND HEALING

Peter Buxton

Friday 30th January 2015. 9.30am to 12.30 pm (registration 0900)

Introduction

Peter draws upon years of work with Caroline Myss to present a method of using archetypes as an invaluable tool for self-reflection, re-evaluation and inspiration – particularly when applied to the healing arts. Using his own training and insights from counselling practice, he offers ways for therapists to review their practices, identify “shadow” or hidden habits which may be restricting their potential to serve others. For instance, the Vampire archetype can show how work patterns or management of the client relationship may be draining the therapist! Both instructive and experiential, profound but also light-hearted, the workshop is tailored to the needs of the specific audience. Peter seeks to inspire intuitive thought and to facilitate a shift from the literal to a more spiritual and symbolic perspective.

Biography

Peter Buxton has been engaged with the therapeutic professions for over thirty years. Influenced by the human potential movement, he undertook a variety of healing and group therapy courses in the 1980s and then formally qualified as a counsellor in 1995. After working with MIND in Western Wiltshire as a volunteer counsellor for 2 years, he later ran a successful therapy practice as a BACP Accredited Counsellor for twelve years, working with individuals and couples. Peter also acted as supervisor to several counsellors. From 2006, he trained extensively with Caroline Myss (see www.myss.com) at her institute in Chicago and he teaches her model, “Sacred Contracts and Archetypes” to a wide variety of audiences. He held the role of Chairman of the Radionic Association (see www.radionic.co.uk), a healing organisation, where he also ran workshops on archetypes and healing. Peter regards his therapeutic work as a vocation which works alongside his various business and creative endeavours. He is passionate about sharing the transformative work with archetypes to other therapists.
